

Workshop D – Privacy and Transparency at DPO conference

4 March 2009

Workshop leads: David Smith and Iain Bourne

The privacy notices code of practice is aimed at helping organisations to draft clear privacy notices and make sure they collect information about people fairly and transparently. The code is currently out for consultation until 3rd April.

The aim of the workshop was to discuss the draft code and receive feedback from delegates which will form part of our consultation process.

The main outcomes from the workshop were:

- The code was widely welcomed.
- Delegates appreciated the plain language and accessible format.
- The examples of good and bad privacy notices were thought to be very useful.
